Let the Foundation Make the Most of Your Investment in our Libraries

To donate is to give money or time for a good cause, and I certainly believe our libraries are one of the best causes out there. If you are reading this, you must agree because this newsletter is for the San Bernardino City Library Foundation's supporters.

Now I'm asking you not to donate but to invest in our libraries.

So what's the difference between donating and investing? When you invest, you devote your finances or energy to something with the expectation of a worthwhile result. In the world of finance, it's called a return on investment.

What does all that have to do with libraries or SBCLF?

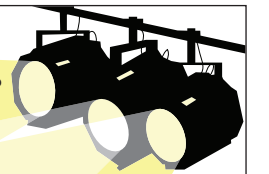

I want you to consider devoting yourself to the expectation that our libraries can and will be a driving force of change in our community, and that the Foundation will fuel that change through your investment.

And, the return on your investment will be a net gain for the entire community. Visit the library and you can see the return on your investment in the form of new computers for patrons and staff. You can see it in the Overdrive book selections, which allow patrons to check out digital and audio books from home or work.

Your investment also provides community members with free access to entertainment and information through physical books and internet access. Imagine what a difference that makes in helping them live happier, more successful lives.

So, invest today, and see your investment returns in every smiling face in our city.
